Muscular Christianity is characterized by an “association between physical strength, religious certainty, and the ability to shape and control the world around oneself.”

According to Donald Hall, vigorous exercise was thought to help a man withstand “potential threats to religious belief, bodily health, and social stability” (8). In this train of thought, physical exercise,

Muscular Christianity edited by Donald E. Hall

But, as Donald E. Hall points out in Muscular Christianity: Embodying the Victorian Age, when the dominant male elite didn't feel they were "present" enough in society, they simply redefined masculine norms under a veil of Christian duty. America soon got a taste of masculine Christianity and evolved it to serve a unique agenda.
