Lila or Leela can be loosely translated as the "divine play". The concept of Lila is common to both non-dualist and dualist philosophical schools of Indian philosophy, but has a markedly different significance in each. Within non-dualism, Lila is a way of describing all reality, including the cosmos, as the outcome of creative play by the divine absolute. In the dualistic schools of Vaishnavism, Lila refers to the activities of God and his devotee, as well as the macrocosmic actions of the manif

This grand play is choreographed by Divine Will. When we act in harmony with the Divine Will, then all that we have envisioned comes to pass, and it seems as though our own will is being done. But when we attempt to act in opposition to the Divine Will, then our plans will not be successful, and we see that our own will and our petty opinions mean nothing when they are in opposition to the Divine Will.
